

COO and Founder - Dean Banta

Mr. Banta has been involved in the Information Technology business since 1978. He has been involved in many aspects of data communications that span from system design to actual specifications, modeling, prototyping, installation and operations. Over the years he has been involved in the implementations of many generations of networking systems, operating systems and a wide variety of business and technology management systems. Most recently Mr. Banta was a founder of Managed Object Solutions, an object-oriented Business Service Management (BSM) company that pioneered the web-based systems management console as well as the object based heterogeneous systems integration and correlation application initially called Formula.